Subject Description:

The purpose of this subject is to develop newswriting skills for the print media. Students will be introduced to a range of core themes, including identifying story ideas, research techniques, interviewing, and writing according to a traditional inverted pyramid approach. Students will also be introduced to a range of ethical and legal concepts that underpin newswriting. Assessment is built around the development of fundamental writing skills, including the ability to convey often complex information in a concise way, spelling and grammar. Students will be expected to submit a range of stories and other writing tasks for assessment.

Learning Objectives:

On successful completion of this subject, students will be able to:

1. Understand the basic principles of news writing.
2. Identify story angles in news events/issues.

3. Be able to research stories and conduct interviews that add significantly to a story's development
3. Write news stories that will appeal to a broad readership.

In meeting these objectives, students will develop skills relevant to the following Attributes of a Wollongong Graduate:

- * A commitment to continued and independent learning, intellectual development, critical analysis and creativity.
- * Coherent and extensive knowledge in a discipline, appropriate ethical standards and, where appropriate, defined professional skills.
- * Self-confidence combined with oral and written skills of a high level.
- * A capacity for, and understanding of, teamwork.
- * An ability to analyse issues logically, as well as to evaluate different options and viewpoints and to implement decisions.
- * An appreciation and valuing of cultural and intellectual diversity and the ability to function in a multicultural or global environment.
- * An acknowledgement and acceptance of individual responsibilities and obligations, and of the assertion of the rights of the individual and the community.

Performance Grades & Descriptors:

HD	High Distinction	85 – 100%	Work that achieves this grade will be of publishable or near publishable standard. It will show a strong understanding of the subject matter being written about and be presented in a lively and/or informative style. To achieve a High Distinction, students will display strong research and analytic skills (where required), and the ability to extract interesting or difficult to obtain information from interviewees. In the case of essays, you will be expected to have read widely and be able to incorporate a range of arguments in your writing. Such copy will be clean, showing that the writer takes editorial pride in their work.
D	Distinction	75 – 84%	To obtain a distinction, you will display above-average abilities. This will include strong writing and presentation skills. Your copy will be clean and complete. In the case of a journalistic task, your work will reveal a good understanding of the topic. This will be reflected in your research and use of talent. In an academic piece, your skills will be displayed through your presentation of material and use of academic resources. You will display a good understanding of the literature and of the arguments for and against a particular proposition.
C	Credit	65 – 74%	Work that is awarded this grade will be fundamentally sound, but not particularly exciting. It will contain the core elements, although not of a standard that would warrant publication without considerable revision. This work will be deficient in at least one of a number of areas, including writing, structure or understanding of the topic.
P	Pass	50 – 64%	Such work will generally reveal significant flaws. This might include, but would not be confined to, a lack of understanding, superficiality, or poor writing. One major potential flaw is a failure to follow recognised journalistic formats.
PC	Pass Conceded	45 – 49%	This work will be of an inadequate standard, due potentially to a number of flaws, including an obvious lack of preparation or research on the part of the student, poor writing, editing and presentational skills. A student who has received this mark may have shown a lack of commitment to the subject.
PR	Pass Restricted (not available at 300 level)	45 – 49%	The work will have failed to meet the required standards in a number of key areas. The student may have ignored assessment criteria, produced work that is not of a publishable standard, failed to follow journalistic formats, or shown little pride or interest in their work.
F	Fail (unsatisfactory completion)	0 - 49%	Work that is accorded a fail mark will not have met the required criteria. The writing will be of a poor standard, showing inadequate information and may reveal considerable punctuation, grammar or spelling errors. Research will be superficial or non-existent. In the case of journalistic features, the use of talent will also be inadequate.
